New library for Lutterworth

Haliburton County Library and the Municipality of Lutterworth are pleased to announce the establishment of a library facility in Lutterworth beside the Municipal Building on Highway 35. This library will open for the summer with a collection of 2,000 current and classic fiction, non-fiction and children's books.

Mr. Pat Conaghan, Reeve

of Lutterworth and members of the County Library Board, is to be congratulated on the provision of a very important service to both permanent residents and cottagers in the Municipality.

The establishment of a library in Lutterworth will take some pressure off the very busy Minden Library which has always provided library service to Lutterworth rate-payers.

The County Library Board will provide materials and staff to this the 10th library in the Haliburton County Library System. Haliburton County is one of the Counties in Ontario with all municipalities participating; and now is the only County in Ontario with a library in each municipality.

The Municipality of Lutterworth will provide the library building and will service and maintain it. The building will be the former Stanhope Library which will be moved from the location when their new building is completed.

Both the Municipal Council and the County Library Board welcome all county and municipal residents to visit this new addition to our library organization.

Bogus bills around OPP warn

Minden OPP have been advised by Metro Toronto Police to be on the lookout for counterfeit American money which is now circulated in Toronto and could be passed in the Victoria Haliburton area.

Constable Wim Magee, community services officer, said there is no reason to believe the people who are passing the bogus bills will stay in Toronto.

He said the business communities in this area should be aware of the situation. "They could come this way, but we haven't had any reports of the money being passed in our area."

The policeman said the bogus bills are in denominations of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100. He said counterfeit American money is difficult to spot. Area residents, especially business people, are advised to watch for the quality of the printing.

He said the quality of the printing on genuine bills is "crisp and clear" whereas it is not on counterfeit bills.

The policeman said anyone who suspects he has a counterfeit bill should report it immediately to the police. They should try to remember what the passer looked like and if possible note a licence plate number and write it down on the suspected bill.

He warned anyone who comes into possession of a bogus bill not to try to pass it to someone else because then they are just as guilty of an offence as the original passer.

Week for Seniors

The theme this year for the Senior Citizen's Week is "Seniors Making a Contribution to Society Through Self Help and Helping Others." Isn't that what our Seniors have been doing for many years? Without the contribution of our Seniors our Juniors would be lacking much in wisdom and understanding.

To show our appreciation the Provincial Government and the County have declared June 20-26 as Senior Citizens' Week and each year the staff at Hyland Crest have shown their desire to further the idea by making their contribution in the form of the Annual Over 70's Dinner.

Have you been fortunate enough to qualify for each of the Senior Citizens' Celebrations at Hyland Crest? Or are you a newcomer to the ranks of the "Over 70's"? Whenever it is you are invited again to come to Hyland Crest during the Senior Citizens' Week to share in the fellowship that has made each of the "Over 70's Dinners" so successful.

This year we celebrate on June 22nd at 5:30 p.m. Come with your spouse or escort and enjoy it with us. Just let us know you are coming by June 18th if possible, and there will be a place for you.

More news next week, but keep the date in mind.

Accident claims life

A Willowdale man was thrown from his car and killed early Sunday morning as he travelled south on Highway 35 about 2 miles from Dorset, south of the junction with Highway 117.

Dead after his vehicle rolled several times and threw him clear is 24 year old Ronald Wayne Morris of 118 Northdale Road in Willowdale.

Police at Minden set the time of the accident at around 5:30 a.m. but indicate it may have occurred previous to that.

There is some speculation that the driver and only occupant of the car may have been trying to avoid an animal, when the accident happened. A dead racoon was found on the highway near the scene of the human fatality.

Coroner Dr. H.E. Good of Haliburton pronounced the man dead at 9:15 a.m. The investigating officer is Constable Bob Wood.

By-pass policy questioned

John Eakins, M.P.P., Victoria-Haliburton, questioned the Honourable James Snow, Minister of Transportation and Communications in the Legislature's Question Period, regarding the policy of controlled access roads. Mr. Eakins wondered if the policy was the same across the Province, or if it varied from area to area. When asked for a specific case in point, the Victoria-Haliburton member asked the Minister why so many applications have been turned down on the Minden By-Pass, when Peterborough Lumber were granted a permit last August. The Minister said he did not know the answer, but promised to look into it and report back.

John Eakins said he hoped everyone would be used fairly and on the same basis, and if there were differences in policy varying with each applicant, then he wanted to know this. He said, "I feel the people in the Minden area deserve an explanation. I have been asked many questions and I would appreciate an answer."

Resolution goes to hospital

The Ross Memorial Hospital management and finance committee received a copy of a resolution passed by the County Council of Haliburton on May 21, worded as follows:

"Be it resolved that this county council requests the government of Ontario to abandon the closing of hospitals unless the said closing is approved by the Legislature of Ontario."

The resolution was received by the Board of Governors without comment.

President of the Ontario Real Estate Association and was the theme speaker. A keen student of philosophy, as it relates to selling, Art delivered a real pep talk to the group. Salespeople, like all people, should have well defined goals that can be realistically achieved, he stated. Having set the goal, the decision must be made as to a persons willingness to pay the price to achieve it.

Have well defined priorities and take care of the important things first. A well balanced life is more important than simply making money, he added. "All the time you need to succeed" was the gist of his talk and Mr. Johnson dealt very specifically with the management of one's time, stating that we operate at about 12% of our efficiency.

He stated that many salespersons take their holidays sitting behind their desks and he advised these to take their families on a real vacation. He further stated that many were simply 'order takers', failing to qualify their prospects, merely 'spinning wheels'.

Mr. Johnson has been through the mill himself - there was much virtue and conviction in his talk. He was introduced by Maurice Park, Director of the Ontario Association and thanked by Donald White of Coboconk, who made a presentation.

In the business session of the meeting, memberships were presented to eight new members of the Lindsay-Haliburton Real Estate Board.

Four-year-old boy drowns near cottage

The body of a four-year-old Bobcaygeon area boy was found at 9:05 a.m. Monday by OPP divers from Minden and Lindsay about 14 hours after he was reported missing by his mother.

Peterborough OPP said the body of Douglas Drummond Sweeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sweeney of R.R. 3, Bobcaygeon, was found in eight feet of water about eight feet away from the dock outside the family cottage which also serves as a permanent residence on Lake Bald Lake. The cottage is five miles east of

No one injured, cars fare worse

Everybody emerged from a collision with their skins but the two vehicles were somewhat worse for wear.

The run-in occurred on what is known as Cedar Plank Cottage Road in Somerville Township around 7:30 p.m. Sunday as the two vehicles met on a curve. A westbound car driven by Lee Gordon Baldwin, 37, of Scarborough, and an eastbound car driven by Dale Melton McTaggart, 21, of Tweed, slammed into each other on the cottage road but damage was negligible - $200 damage to Baldwin's automobile and $400 to McTaggart's.

Hartwick throws no hitter

Only five batters reached first base last Thursday night as the Gull Rivers Builders thumped the Haliburton Legionnaires 12 to 0. Hartwick is the Gull River top pitcher walked only three batters once the infield gave up two errors as Rick went for his fourth win in as many starts. The Builders were in control from the start as they scored three runs in the first and four more in the second inning. Gull River in making it four wins in a row have piled up forty six runs and have only had five scored against and are working

LOCAL FISHERIES

Ottawa-Canada can help attack rural poverty in developing countries by improving small-scale inshore or inland fisheries as part of integrated rural development programs.

A Sectoral Guideline on development of fisheries projects with Third World nations stresses the importance of promoting projects which improve local food supplies.

The Guideline for projects administered by the Canadian International Development Agency says Canada should emphasize resource management, research, training and elimination of waste. It was developed in close collaboration with the Fisheries and Marine Service of the Department of the Environment.

Fisheries are the largest, yet relatively unexploited, source of animal protein. The world fish catch could theoretically supply about 70 per cent of the animal protein requirement of the world's population; yet as present half is consumed by livestock, mainly in developed countries, as a food supplement.

The Guideline emphasizes the need to use appropriate technology which will not disrupt local social and economic structures. CIDA planning should reflect the importance of artisanal fisheries which increase local food supplies, provide continuing employment and an improved standard of living within fishing communities.

CIDA's assistance for the fisheries sector should be part of national or regional integrated long term programs and developing countries should be encouraged to adopt a regional approach to fisheries problems.

The Guideline notes that Canada has attained a high degree of efficiency and competence in many areas of the fishing industry, particularly in processing facilities and distribution and marketing systems. CIDA must mobilize the valuable skills and experience available within the Canadian commercial fishing industry, recruiting experts such as master fishermen whose skills are more manual than academic.

The Guideline identifies as high priority activities: - Assessment of fish stocks and establishment of conservation measures. - Developing of marketing systems and promotion of

OTTAWA and Small Business

Problem of concentration

By KENNETH McDONALD

As many as 100,000 Canadian businesses could disappear over the next five years if Canada continues on the British path of expanding government.

Some businesses fail through incompetence and are replaced by others. But far more disappear because high levels of government spending force them to sell out. High government spending works its way through the economy. Everything goes up: wages and salaries, operating costs, taxes and interest rates.

With profitability threatened, owner-managers seek purchasers, while the business is still viable, among larger companies which possess the market strength to pass on the tax wage price spiral.

The circle is complete: high government spending; forced sale of small businesses to larger firms; corporate concentration through merger and acquisition; union concentration to match the corporations. That is the British model. It is inefficient and it leads to a declining standard of living.

The concentration of business in large firms and of people in big cities weakens the rural communities which then have to be supported by expanding social assistance programs.

The Japanese have a phrase: "Building small firms is cheaper than welfare." It's reflected in their dynamic economy, where government consumes only 20 per cent of the national product and 69 per cent of the manufacturing work force is employed by small business. In Britain it's the reverse: 60 per cent of the national product is consumed by government and only 20 per cent of the manufacturing work force is employed by small business.

The issue facing Canada is concentration. Not just corporate concentration, but concentration in cities, in union, above all in government. Concentration is not the same as bigness. Plants making steel and petrochemicals have to be big. Large manufacturing plants and small sub-contractors are interdependent.

Concentration in business is a result of the sell-out of small firms that are unable to exist in the political and economic environment that governments have created. That is why the Canadian Federation of Independent Business decided to boycott the Royal Commission on Corporate Concentration.

Instead it recommended, in a letter to Prime Minister Trudeau, that the terms of reference be broadened to include the root cause of our problems: the interconnection between the growth of the state, corporate concentration, and organized labour.

Litter only

Following the Victoria Day weekend we were shocked to see all the household garbage that had been placed in the containers on Sam Slick Park across from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

What a mess it was. The litter containers were filled to the top and the garbage then was placed on the ground. It looked just like a dump.

May we remind the offenders that these barrels are meant for the purpose of litter only, and that all household garbage is to be taken to the dump.

It would appear on the surface that this garbage is being dumped there by cottagers on their way back to the city, who are just too lazy to take it to the Haliburton dump.

We hope that in the future a close eye will be kept in this area and that maybe these offenders will be caught and brought up in court.

Caution to canoeists

Whether you are using a canoe for fishing, tripping or just pure pleasure, the Ontario Safety League suggests that you keep in mind the various precautions necessary to overcome hazards during the spring of the year.

Many of the dangers confronting canoeists in the spring such as poor weather, overloading, tricky water can be overcome if a little planning is done and a lot of common sense is used.

At this time of year, it is prudent to canoe on water that you know you can handle. If you are an amateur you should pick a river, flowing at a gentle speed of three or four miles an hour, so that you can learn how your canoe responds to the current. Or, if you just want to practise paddling strokes, you should pick a sheltered bay where the water is tranquil so that you can get the kinks out of your knees and warm up your muscles with little danger of a gust of wind catching you off balance.

There are two reasons why the Ontario Safety League offers this advice. Firstly, the weather is so variable right now that a strong breeze can come up quickly and, before you can adjust your position in the canoe to compensate for the change in wind velocity, you find yourself in a difficult situation. Secondly, capsizing from now until July is extremely dangerous because water temperature is cold enough to cause hypothermia, which is the loss of body heat from the inner core of the body, leading to unconsciousness and death from exposure.

It is heartbreaking to know that within a two week period this spring, six canoeists in Ontario drowned or died from exposure when their canoes tipped. It is possible that each fatality could have been prevented if there had been better planning for the outing. The right water could have been selected. The weatherman could have been consulted. A comfortable lifejacket or approved personal flotation device could have been worn.

If you do capsize, don't panic. Fill the canoe full of water, climb in and paddle ashore as quickly as possible, using your hands and arms to get there.

The Ontario Safety League asks you to wear an approved life jacket or personal flotation device wherever you canoe this year.

Dear Sir:

Petition on Behalf of Robert Austin

The following members of the Brady Lake Ratepayers Association and concerned friends of Robert Austin believe that the Province of Ontario is guilty of Gross Injustice in attempting to reclaim the Island (known locally as Bob's Island) at the west end of Brady Lake and part of Lot 5, Concession IV of the Township of Hindon in the County of Haliburton. It has been in the Austen family since 1886 and was obtained by Edward Austen (Robert's grandfather) as an original land grant from her Majesty, Queen Victoria and included on Crosby Brady's survey map (H-13) of 1860. Since its acquisition, it has stayed in the Austen clan through the years passing from Edward to Albert, then to Hugh and finally to Robert Austin who with the assistance of his brother Jim built a cottage on it and has paid taxes on the Island since 1945. Apparently without notifying Robert Austin, the Ontario Government in 1969 laid claim to the Island even though the Austen family have always believed it to be a bonified part of Lot 5.

We the undersigned feel that this Island is, and always has been a part of the original Lot 5, and that Robert Austin is the legal owner of it. Any move by the Ontario Government to remove Mr. Austin from this land can only be judged as having ulterior motives behind their actions.

Honourable Gentlemen:

On February 16, 1974, I made a vow to be all that I ought to be in fulfilling my responsibilities as a Christian father and Canadian citizen in regards to the crucial issue of the education of our children.

The record of the consequences of that vow to "the God before whom I stand" is documented in the book "Tempest in a Teapot". The non-sectarian, non-partisan citizens' committee, Renaissance, which has developed out of the protest I initially registered on Feb. 22, 1974, now includes thousands of members from coast to coast, "seeking to exert the civilizing influences of parent power in public education."

After initially withholding the educational portion of our property taxes in protest over what I perceived to be the destructively anti-Christian philosophies dominating the public school system, I eventually paid my taxes in the Fall of '74, "under protest to Queen's Park where the discriminatory policies which I protest originate."

I have come now to Queen's Park as the culmination of that commitment I made to responsible parenthood and citizenship in February, 1974. I am here as a private citizen and as a Minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. I have been assured by our Member of Parliament that the particulars of my demonstration here at Queen's Park do not violate any regulations of which he is aware and that the character thereof is compatible with the traditions of our parliamentary system. I am a constructionist and have come with the most profound respect from Parliament, Parliamentarians, and the processes of Parliamentary procedure.

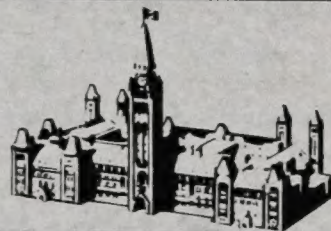

But I come in the desperation and urgency borne out of the anguished conviction that the foundations of our freedoms are being eroded and the future of our children jeopardized by the destructive philosophies dominating public education in Ontario.

And I come to beg the Members of Parliament in all Parties to give careful consideration to the proposals for reversing these tragic trends, contained in the petition and brief being presented this month to the Government by Renaissance Ontario.

May your response be such that Ontario will "lead the way to a sane and satisfying new day in public education."

Sincerely,
Ken Campbell,

The pension fiasco

By KENNETH McDONALD

When the Canada Pension Plan became law in 1965, a massive deception was perpetrated on the contributors. They were offered, apparently, an opportunity to save for their retirement at the low, low price of 3.6 per cent of contributory earnings (presently those earnings are between $800 and $8,300 per year).

Well, they were had and it will be necessary for them to cough up more than twice this amount to keep the Plan viable. The Plan was never actuarially sound from Day One. It's a similar story with the Quebec Pension Plan.

A recent Ontario Government study points to an increase in the combined employer-employee contribution rate from 3.6 to 8.3 per cent to insure all the benefits promised can be paid. This would mean additional combined contributions of up to $352.50 per year. The Quebec Pension Plan will be bankrupt in 1994, the CPP in the year 2000.

Our provincial governments were willing partners to this deception because pension plan contributions were made available to them as a source of low-cost financing. However, in the early 1980's, the provinces are going to find themselves in a bind. The amount of money available annually from the fund will be less than the interest payments they will have to make to Ottawa on past borrowings.

An actuarial analysis conducted by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business provides insight into the problems of financing. Take, for example, the case of a man retiring in 1976 at age 65. He and his employer would have contributed, at the maximum rate, about $2,000. But based on a normal life expectancy, normal payments to his surviving spouse, and a continuation of inflation at moderate rates, he can expect to receive at least $35,000 in benefits.

If a more than 100 per cent increase in contributions doesn't bother you, what about one of the proposals of the Canadian Labour Congress that pension benefits be tripled? This would require a total contribution rate of three times 8.3 or 24.9 per cent of contributory earnings.

Underestimating the costs of social programs when they are first proposed is an old political game. Remember unemployment insurance? A guaranteed annual income plan is the next move in Ottawa's welfare game. Will we be taken in again?

My wife the wizard

SOME women's hearts are won by French perfume, mink coats, and diamonds. I've managed to steer clear of this type.

All it takes to make my wife happy is a new machine. After years of comparative poverty, during which everything we had was second-hand, falling apart, or broken, I am occasionally able to gratify her lust for something that hums, purrs, growls or roars. None of those verbs applies to me, by the way.

It doesn't matter what it is, anything from a kitchen gadget to a grand piano; it pleases her pink, for a while.

Not for her the big bouquet on Mother's Day, the fancy ear-rings on her birthday, the coluptuous dressing-gown for Christmas. She wants no part of such frivolities. Just give her something that beats or churns or sews or polishes, and she's in ecstasy.

I didn't know this when we were first married. I thought she was a normal, greedy woman, and kept trying to please her by buying blouses that didn't fit, sweaters the wrong color, earrings she wouldn't be found dead in.

My first knowledge of her true cravings, in material possessions, came after we'd been married a year. I was a student veteran. Our total income was $68 a month, believe it or not. Our rent was $75 a month. We ate only because I took part-time and vacation jobs.

One day I came home and was stunned to discover she'd bought a sewing machine, for $149.95. She had also signed up for a sewing course, at $15, and had bought material to make a suit, for $20. I have never been stingy, but I was a trifle aghast.

She had bought it on the instalment plan, naturally. The story has a reasonably happy ending. She quit the sewing course after a few lessons, finally threw out the suit material, about 10 years later. But she traded in that sewing machine on a new one the other day, and got $75 for the old one. So her sewing has cost her about three dollars a year, over the years. Even a skinflint couldn't quarrel with that.

Another day I came home and steam started coming out of my navel when she coolly informed me she'd bought a grand piano, for about $4,000, also on the instalment plan. Our income by this time was just about $4,000 a year.

"Migawd," I thought. "Hate to do it, but I'm going to have to have her committed. We've gotta educate the kids, pay the mortgage. She'll ruin us."

Once again, her extravagance turned out to be shrewd dealing. She gave piano lessons, the kids were educated, the mortgage is paid. And the other day, an expert told her the grand piano, as it stands, is worth about $5,500.

I compare these gambits with my own investments, in which a couple of thousand dollars worth of stocks inevitably wind up as 50 shares of moose pasture, and I can't be anything but humble.

This has gone on through the years between, and I've never ceased to be amazed at this woman's thing about a new machine.

There's only one flaw in her aberration. Get her a piano and you never get a meal. She's too busy playing the thing. Get her a record player, and everybody who comes in range must be interviewed. Forget about reading a book or relaxing.

Right now, it's the new sewing machine. It's a beauty, according to her, a Bernina, the Cadillac of sewing machines. It will do anything. In a flash, your garment will have seven new button holes or a monogram stitched onto the pocket in purple thread.

We're probably the only people in town who can read in bed without taking a book. We just turn down the sheets and spell out what she has stitched all over them. Things like: "Cold feet make cool bed-fellows" and "Some limousine is my sewing machine," and "How now, brown cow." It's a lot of fun, but it's hard to get to sleep with all that Braille stitching tapping out messages on your anatomy.

I'll admit the new machine will do everything but button up your fly. But it's playing havoc with our domestic life. She can't drag herself away from it.

The Old Lady is up at five o'clock in the morning, sewing. She sneaks down after the news at 11 p.m. to whip off a few stitches.

I have to get most of the meals. She has time to iron only one shirt and wash one pair of socks at a time, which rather keeps me on edge, sartorially. I am barraged with totally incomprehensible terms such as tucks, darts, pleats, basting, gathering.

I know it will end, once she is on more familiar terms with her new toy. But until then, it is rather like living with a child who has discovered what fun it is to pound on a drum.

Maybe I should have got her one of those garden tractors, with a tiller and cultivator. At least she'd be getting some fresh air, and I'd be getting some peas.

OTTAWA and SMALL BUSINESS

The lottery shell game

Prime Minister Trudeau rejected additional federal funding for the Olympics from tax revenues. In a brilliant display of fiscal finesse, Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa levered him off that hook by proposing, instead, an extension of the Olympic lottery beyond July, 1976.

Printing money and government lotteries are the tools of political charlatans. They simply stretch the free lunch counter still further. It's this - the something-for-nothing philosophy - which the Little Red Rooster campaign is aimed at. Wake Up Canada advertisements of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business will be appearing over the next twelve months in community newspapers across Canada. The target, galloping government spending that is not financed by taxes.

Haliburton Highlights

Fun night was held once again at the Victoria Street School in Haliburton last Friday night and as usual people turned out in large numbers for this ever popular annual event.

The Salvation Army held a one night blitz in Haliburton recently in connection with the Red Shield Appeal. The entire village was not completed as some of the canvassers failed to show up.

At one time the Rotary Club of Haliburton was seriously considering a project to have the Drag River in Haliburton cleaned up. We think that this would be a wonderful project and we wonder if this could be accomplished with the LIP grant.

We have just been advised that Ontario Provincial Police Constables Brian Ladurantaye, Terry Brown, Ron Buchanan of the Minden Detachment have also been assigned to security duties at the Olympic Yachting competition in Kingston from June 15th to August 15th.

Municipal employees have done a grand job of cleaning up the Rotary Beach Area and the grass has been cut, the beach cleaned and all the litter has been picked up. We understand that the Haliburton Boy Scouts also had a hand in the clean up operation.

Medicine should never be given without a doctor's order. St. John Ambulance warns, medicine ordered for one person should never be used for another unless the doctor approves it.

The Rotary Clubs of Haliburton and Minden held a joint meeting in Minden recently.

As of June 1st, 1976 the Schedule of Wicket hours at the Haliburton Post Office will be as follows. Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. Saturday 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon. The Box Lobby will return to 24 hour service as soon as repairs are completed.

The local Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal is drawing to a close. If you have not made a donation to this most worthy cause, please do so today.

He who hesitates is lost, so the saying goes. But the Ontario Safety League doesn't believe it. At least not the driver who hesitates at a just-turned-green light until the vehicle ahead moves out a few feet... or a driver who hesitates at an intersection until he's sure the driver on his left on the cross street is really yielding the right of way... or the driver who hesitates until he's sure the parked vehicle isn't going to pull out into traffic... or the driver who hesitates until he's sure a pedestrian isn't going to dash across the street in front of him... or the driver who hesitates until he's positive he can pass safely. The Ontario Safety League says: He who hesitates is not lost!

Like most people, you probably just see us around Christmas time. When we're singing carols and shaking the tambourine. For some people, however, we're around all year. We take their children to summer camps. We distribute food and clothing. We repair their bodies in our hospitals. Most of all we restore their hope, through Christian charity.

You may not see much of us. But others do. And they depend upon your donations to the Red Shield Appeal to make sure we're available. If you don't need our help, we need yours.

Report from Parliament

by

William C. Scott

Finance Minister Donald MacDonald tabled his first budget last week since taking on the finance portfolio after the resignation last year of John Turner. For all there was in the budget, the government might well have waited until it had something meaningful to offer.

Everything of a worthwhile nature in the budget could have been accomplished by the simple expedient of an order in Council, or the tabling of a bill in the House.

The main purpose of a government budget is to correct undesirable trends in the economy, and thereby alleviate unhealthy situations such as high unemployment and inflation. We have both in Canada at the present time, and last week's budget should have been directed at these problems.

That was not possible, though, because the Canadian economy is locked into a straitjacket, and an expansionary budget would have been a contradiction. The only trend in the Canadian economy today is downward, and it is being held in a downward drive by the strictest price and incomes program in the history of our country.

Unemployment in Canada continues to rise, and only an expansionary federal budget would have any effect in dealing with this situation. We need expansion in our economy, and we need incentives for industry and business to expand. Only in that way can the country's employers create the tens of thousands of new jobs that we need so badly.

The government used the budget to extend its controls over a larger segment of the economy, and that was hardly a good reason for a budget. In the past, when the government decided to bring other areas of the economy under the Anti-Inflation Program, it did so by order in Council. Using the budget in this case to do the same thing was only a sop.

The control program proposed by the Conservative party in the 1974 federal general election campaign was designed to isolate and identify the chief causes of inflation. We wanted to accomplish this with selective, short term controls that would have allowed the economy to remain healthy so that it could expand naturally to meet demand.

We also recognized that runaway federal government spending was the chief cause of inflation in Canada, and we proposed to reduce this spending to reasonable and necessary levels. Part of this could have been accomplished then, and could be today, by eliminating waste and inefficiency.

What we have instead is a Canadian economy that is paralyzed, held in the grip of the Anti-Inflation Board, a new and growing government bureaucracy. In addition, we have continued government spending that exceeds the anti-inflation guidelines by two to three hundred per cent.

In 1967 the annual budget for running the country was about ten billion dollars, after one hundred years of Confederation. Five years later under the present government, the budget has doubled. Today, five years under the present government, the budget had doubled. Today, five years after, it has more than doubled again, to an appalling 42 billion dollars.

One item in the budget proposes amalgamation of the Unemployment Insurance Commission with Manpower. I have advocated this for a number of years. However, the only way that this can be effective in reducing unemployment is for the government to introduce a job training program that trains people for jobs that exist. This can only be done if the government cooperates fully with industry and business, and the labour unions.

People must be trained on the job, in jobs that are not otherwise filled because jobhunters lack the necessary skills. People trained on the job with a company usually remain in those jobs, instead of leaving after training to joining the ranks of job seekers.

All too often in the past, Manpower has trained people for trades where the field was already saturated. We must not repeat that mistake.

Union sick benefits restored

The restoration of sick leave and other benefits for about 9,000 seasonal employees of the provincial government, has been won by the Ontario Public Service Employees Union.

OPSEU announced that the Civil Service Commission has agreed that benefits provided for unclassified civil servants under the regulations to the Public Service Act, will continue to apply to them. Those benefits had been cut off following the handing down of a civil service-wide working conditions arbitration award January 28.

A directive, passed down through each ministry, had ordered the cancellation of all benefits not covered by the arbitration award. Only the wage rates, vacation pay, overtime and holidays of the unclassified staff had been covered in the award.

The union had filed a policy grievance against the government decision, arguing that the award merely covered improvements in the previously existing benefit structure and that all benefits not covered in the award were to remain unchanged.

The government directive was an attempt to discredit the union by making it seem to have negotiated away benefits which its members had previously enjoyed, said Charles Darrow, president of the 63,000 member union.

Benefits not dealt with in the award but found in the regulations can be taken away by the government but only by amending the regulations through an order-in-council, Mr. Darrow explained.

He added that the government's decision not to amend the order-in-council makes it obvious that the government did not want to take the blame for the removal of long-standing employee benefits.

"The high-handed government action demonstrates the importance of enshrining all employee rights and benefits in collective agreements where they can't be removed at the employer's whim," Darrow said.

Dad - Where's your hunting rifle or favourite rod and reel?

Dad - When your teenage son takes your hunting rifle or rod and reel out of the house do you know that he has it and what he is doing with it? Lindsay District Conservation Officers are concerned with the number of juveniles they are finding violating the game and fish laws with your equipment. Every year juveniles are apprehended hunting or fishing during closed seasons. In many cases the juvenile is taken to his residence, his parents warned about the offence and the parents equipment returned.

If you, as a parent of a teenager who is interested in hunting and fishing, want to know more about the Game & Fish laws in Ontario contact your nearest Ministry of Natural Resources office. It may save you the embarrassment of a court appearance with your son, the expense of a fine and the possible loss of your favourite rifle or rod and reel.

MOOSE SEASONS - 1976

A six day moose season has been announced for Haliburton and North Peterborough Counties, from Nov. 1 to Nov. 6/76 inclusive. For information on moose seasons in other parts of the province please contact your local District Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

CREEL CENSUS 1976

Attention anglers, the Kawartha Lakes Fisheries Assessment Unit has begun collecting creel census information on Pigeon and Chemung Lakes. The creel crew will be seeking information about both the anglers and the fish caught. They will be after information about fishing methods, hours fished, species sought and whether the anglers are from resorts, cottages or directly from home. Information sought for fish includes number, species and size of fish caught. This information will allow us to build a fairly detailed picture of the status of the angling fishery on these lakes.

The accuracy of this Sport Fishery picture depends a great deal on the co-operation of the anglers interviewed. Since management decisions may be based, at least in part, on this information it is in the angler's interest to ensure correct reporting to the creel crew.

While fishing the waters of the Lindsay District you may well observe tagged fish. Lindsay District employs both yellow disc tags and spaghetti floy tags to determine such factors as growth rates, mortality rates, fish movement patterns and estimates of fish population levels. Your assistance in returning all fish tags you obtain, along with your name and address, time and location of your catch, and size of the fish is a valuable part of our program. Please make every effort to aid our efforts by directing your tag returns and information to this office.

Trent-Severn news

With drier weather in recent days the lakes and rivers have been holding or lowering in levels. The percentage of storage on the reservoirs as a whole was 95% on May 27 and the Gull River flow had been reduced to its minimum, because sufficient water is available now on the Kawarthas.

Water control on the Gull River above and below the Hawk Lake Dam has been hampered recently by the restriction caused by the collapse of the causeway across Hawk Lake. An excess of water is still running from the Burnt River, but considerable less than a week ago.

Navigation remains hazardous due to high flows and boaters are warned to be cautious in the Kawarthas and on the Otonabee River.

tioner on an enquiry list which provides brochures from vacation spots across the province."

At the centre, literature, maps and brochures on accommodations, attractions, camping, fishing, hiking, golfing, boating, winter activities, special events and facilities are available to the public, and the service is free.

Horse racing industry employer for many people

"When we talk today about $100,000 or $200,000 being required to create a new job, the horse racing industry has provided tremendous job opportunities for many people in the smaller communities in rural Ontario", emphasized Frank Drea, M.P.P., Scarborough Centre.

Mr. Drea was speaking during the tabling of the Consumer and Commercial Relations Ministry estimates. He pointed out that the number of driver and trainer licenses has increased from 14,000 in 1971 to 21,500 in 1976 and thereby allowed more people to live in their own communities instead of travelling to Toronto for work.

He claimed that the thoroughbred improvement program has helped to stabilize what was becoming ever more quickly a very uneconomic industry. That trend has been dramatically reversed.

"There is no industry that produces as much direct employment in this province on the basis of investment as does the entire horse operation," he said.

Profits mean prosperity

After a brief enough period of optimism, Canadian stock markets turned pessimistic again in April, reflecting continued sluggishness and uncertain profit prospects for business. Failure of Canadian businesses to do better and the prospect of indifferent performance during the rest of this year was not what most economists had forecast.

Where the economists went wrong was in sticking to the entrenched belief that future business performance can be predicted accurately by studying past performance. That is invalidated, as successful businessmen know, when the climate in which business operates undergoes major changes.

Six months ago, Alfred Powis, president of Noranda Mines Ltd., considered at some length the changing business climate in Canada. He concluded that our economic performance soon would be seen to be unsatisfactory by all elements of our society. "We have become altogether too preoccupied with the redistribution of wealth, to the exclusion of its creation," he said.

The stock market now recognizes and is reacting to the inability of business to provide the wealth needed to sustain our society. It is not enough simply to stop inflation. Business has to be able to earn profits that justify investment in the future before there can be any significant improvement in the creation of wealth needed to prevent the deterioration of society.

Many members of governments and opposition parties, many labor union officials and many academics, all full of socialist ideas and theories, do all they can to discredit business because business strives to make a profit. Very often, they display their ignorance and irresponsibility by vastly exaggerating the size of profits, although factual figures are readily available.

What is worse, they mislead the public concerning the role of profits in modern society.

For a business, profit is the excess of income over the cost of remaining in business. Without business profit to tax, governments would have to cut back their programs. Without profits, business could not raise wages or improve conditions for employees. Without profits for business, universities would have difficulty finding scholarships and research grants for academics.

Mr. Powis, in his study, noted that those who condemn business because it strives to be profitable have lost sight of the source of our present capacity to alleviate the lot of the poor and the unemployed; to protect and to improve the ecology; to provide most of us with an affluence far beyond that of our ancestors, here or elsewhere.

Three words identify that source -- reinvestment of profits. This process starts within a well-run business. After paying taxes on gross profits, only a part of net profits goes to the owners, or shareholders. A very large part is reinvested to improve its efficiency, and to improve its services to customers, by improving products or expanding its activities. It could also mean increasing competitiveness, to increase Canada's exports and to reduce our need for imports.

Socialists, who seem to have a special instinct for recognizing the nastier human instincts, such as greed, are particular advocates of public ownership of profitable companies. For example, some are clamoring for a take-over of Imperial Oil Ltd. Let us see what the public really would gain.

Imperial Oil had a net profit of $250 million last year, equal to $1.92 per share. It paid 80 cents per share to shareholders and used the remainder to look for more oil and gas, which we very much need, to update and improve efficiency, and so forth. Because its profit clearly showed the company was in good financial shape, it also was able to borrow for expansion at favorable terms.

The income taxes Imperial Oil paid on its gross profit amounted to $240 million. That is equivalent to a dividend it pays, as a private company, to the citizens of Canada, amounting to about $1.90 a share. To get another 80 cents, the socialists would turn the company over to politicians to make what they could of its future!

Even if run by politicians or by socialists, no company can do better unless it can find and attract the money needed to remain efficient. Profit measures and supports this; lack of a profit points to inefficiency, stagnation and failure. That is what Mr. Powis was talking about when he said that preoccupation with the redistribution of wealth to the exclusion of its creation is leading to a reduction in the quality of life in Canada and so is perpetrating a monstrous fraud on the people.

Is Blue Cross trying to put hospitals out of business?

During the "thirties" -- due to the inability of many families to pay for the cost of hospital treatment -- thousands of people were forced to wait until treatment became, literally, a matter of life or death.

Blue Cross changed that when it launched its prepaid hospital care program in Ontario. The non-profit organization went into operation in '41 with its first group enrolment: the employees of the Cunard-Donaldson steamship line. This was the first of many collective bargaining agreements that made prepaid hospital and medical care a part of contract negotiations.

As one hospital administrator put it: "Hospitals were collecting less than 50 percent of the bills they were accumulating due to the patient's inability to pay. The Blue Cross plan was a good idea and it came out at the right time".

In recent years Ontario Blue Cross has been conducting a campaign which, if it worked to the ultimate degree, would result in hospitals closing their doors.

Impossible? Maybe so, but what's wrong with a programme geared to making everyone so fit that hospitals became almost redundant? The ancient Chinese -- not Ontario Blue Cross -- were the originators of the preventive medicine idea. Hundreds of years ago the Chinese only paid their doctors when they were fit. When they became ill they stopped paying their physician. His job was to prevent rather than cure sickness.

Walter E. Cannon, director of Blue Cross in Ontario, recently stated: "In my thirty-odd years with this non-profit Blue Cross concept, I have witnessed many of the changes which have taken place not only in the area of health insurance but in the field generally.

"One of the more significant changes in recent years has been the increasing awareness of the need for preventive health care. We have always been proud of being a leading proponent of things "preventive" and for many years have conducted an active health education program with both our subscribers and the general public. One of the mainstays of this health education program has been the distribution of publications dealing with everything from nutrition and fitness to mental health and stress, from raising the modern baby to coping with growing old."

FIT FOR FUN

The most recent publication issued by Ontario Blue Cross in the public interest is a 100 page illustrated book entitled "Fit for Fun".

"Fit for Fun" gives the Swedish approach to keeping in shape. It leads off with the statement: "A Swedish male heart ticks 5.3 years longer than its Canadian counterpart. Why?" The publication then outlines a practical, common-sense approach to exercise and eating.

A newspaper columnist had this to say about the publication: "At first glance, this book may appear to be for fitness fanatics. Not so. Its demands on one's time and energy are quite modest ... the discovery of one's own body and the importance of looking after it, is the beginning of all enjoyment and knowledge. Blue Cross is to be commended in their effort to empty the hospitals. It may prove to be the best thing they have ever done. All tax-payers should give them a hearty vote of thanks".

Other publications offered free of charge by the Ontario Blue Cross are: "Stress"; "Food & Fitness"; "Generation in the Middle"; "The Modern Baby"; "Adolescence for Adults" and "Mental Health". These books may be obtained to writing: Walter E. Cannon, Director, Ontario Blue Cross, 150 Ferrand Drive, Don Mills, Ontario, M3C 1H6.

M.P.P. John Eakins addresses Budget Debates

Recently my Leader brought to the attention of this House the fact that the company which moved Ontario Hydro's operations into its' new headquarters on University Avenue may have won the moving contract because it planned to pay wages below the union scale. This company - Tippet-Richardson Ltd., - was the third lowest bidder of the eleven in competition, and the two lower bidders were too small to undertake the job. This move took more than eight months and cost something in the region of $230,000, and there was a clause in the tender which required companies to bid on the basis of paying workers $6.15 an hour, but apparently Tippet-Richardson were paying $3.30 or $3.70 an hour. The difference in labour costs, amounting to $100,000, would have been a major factor in permitting the company to submit a lower bid, knowing all the time that lower wages would be paid.

The Minister informed the House that an investigation is being carried out into this matter, but confirmed that the labour requirements of the tender were not fully met. Our contention is that the whole tendering process must be called into question when one of the competing companies is able to bid on a basis different from the other companies, and that the Attorney General, in view of the fact that this contract has been breached, should look into the possibility of charges being laid under a section of the Criminal Code.

Mr. Speaker, there have been many problems in the past over government tenders - or lack of public tendering of government contracts. There should be no favouritism or patronage involved in this kind of thing, and the government should make absolutely sure that all bidders compete on an equal basis. If present legislation is not adequate, then we must make sure that it is changed to close possible loopholes for inequities of unfair bias.

However, in this instance, our prime concern has to be the injustice to the workers, who had to work below union scale.

Eakins says Woodville needs senior housing

John Eakins, M.P.P., Victoria-Haliburton, says that Woodville needs and deserves Senior Citizen Housing and he said he will do everything possible to help them to get it.

At a meeting recently in Toronto, Mr. Eakins met with the Honourable John Rhodes, along with Warden Shea, Reeve Mervyn Moore, Reeve Maurice Watson, and Deputy Clerk Barney Rogers. The need and desirability of Senior Citizen Housing in Woodville was forcefully presented to the Minister and he promised to look into this following the presentation.

Mr. Eakins said he felt that the question of land costs was not really a fair statement, and evidence would show the land price offer by the owner was more than fair.

In any event, the question of Senior Citizen Housing for Woodville is most important and the Member said he will do everything possible to try and bring this about.

Anti-Inflation Board receive 2,700 reports

OTTAWA - The Anti-Inflation Board to date has received more than 2,700 Base Period Reports representing 4,700 companies.

Following discussions with Board staff, an additional 495 companies have been granted extended filing dates, most of which are in May. The Board is currently inquiring into the positions of about 170 companies which it believes are subject to reporting requirements but have not yet contacted the Board. When all companies have reported, about 5,600 companies will be under direct surveillance by the Board. Consolidated reporting reduces the actual number of reporting entities to 3,050.

More than 1,500 base period reports are currently under review which, due to consolidated reporting, represent more than 3,100 companies. The balance of 1,200 reports representing about 2,100 companies has been examined and deemed satisfactory by the Board.

The Board has also received 1,385 compliance period reports. These cover 2,800 companies which has shown the AIB how they are complying with the Anti-Inflation Guidelines. All companies must file compliance period reports 90 days after their fiscal year end and those companies reporting quarterly must also file compliance period reports 45 days after the end of each fiscal quarter.

Approximately 500 compliance period reports representing more than 900 companies have been processed and found either to be in compliance or to show actual excess revenue and an acceptable compliance plan. The other 900 reports, representing 1,700 firms are under active review.

O.M.A. recommends year of clinical nursing

The Ontario Medical Association recommends that community college nursing students complete an additional year of clinical experience before they are licensed as registered nurses in Ontario.

The Association's Committee on Hospitals told a meeting of the governing Council on Tuesday there is mounting evidence that the new two-year nursing education programs are not satisfactory from a clinical and practical point of view, although they are recognized as academically adequate.

Ontario Medical Association Council recommended an accredited hospital internship program of one year be set up and that such an internship be mandatory to ensure a continuing high standard of patient care in hospitals in Ontario.

John Eakins MPP Victoria-Haliburton speaking in the Budget Debate

OHIP HEALTH SERVICE GENERALLY

Mr. Speaker, I realize that the increased OHIP premiums have been discussed a number of times in the House, but I feel I must add my own voice to those who have protested against this unfair burden which has been placed on the shoulders of so many people in the Province.

The Government has taken the attitude that this enormous increase in OHIP premiums - to $192 for single coverage, and to $384 for family coverage per year - will not create any real hardship for the people of Ontario. This is obviously an unrealistic assessment of the situation, and it would appear that once again the Government has taken an ad hoc decision without giving serious consideration to its consequences for our citizens. The only other explanation would be that the government is indeed fully aware of the implications, but has ruthlessly decided to ignore the hardship which the increase in premiums will cause.

I am aware that many people are involved in group plans for medicare with considerable employer contributions, and that some of these groups are "corporations", able to write off the increased premiums on their tax returns. However, there are many non-corporate OHIP groups, such as municipal workers, school board employees, hospital workers and government employees. There are also thousands of individuals who will be forced to pay the entire OHIP premium themselves - unfortunately many of these people are in the lower income brackets.

The attention of this House has already been drawn to the recent story in the Toronto "Globe and Mail" about the man earning $150 a week, who has to pay the full $384 annually for medical coverage on his family. There are obviously many other people in the same position, and to say there is no hardship involved here because of the increased premiums is patently untrue.

From the government's actions in recent months, one would almost assume that provincial hospitals and municipalities are to be made the whipping boys for past extravagance on the part of the successive Conservative governments.

The Ministry of Health budget has grown enormously in recent years, and in an attempt to reduce overheads the government has embarked upon a scheme to close hospitals in the Province. No consideration was given to the needs of the surrounding communities, or the service which the hospitals concerned had been providing. There were no alternative proposals put forward - such as reducing the number of beds in several hospitals in the area, or issuing guidelines to follow which would have enabled all hospitals to operate more efficiently and economically in an attempt to preserve hospital facilities. In fact, there was no prior consultation with hospital administrations.

Community protests were ignored, as were the objections of the Members of this Legislature. A division court has ruled the closing of four hospitals out of order, and still the government has indicated that this ruling may be turned aside at a later date.

With the increase in OHIP premiums, a further burden is placed on hospital budgets, because being non-corporate, hospitals are not eligible for the "write offs" cited by the Treasurer.

As for municipalities, they had been led to believe by the former Treasurer, John White, in the much-quoted Edmonton commitment, that transfer payments would increase at the rate of the increase in provincial revenue, yet this government has wriggled out of this commitment, and transfer payments this year are only increased by 3.9%, compared with the increase in provincial revenue of 19.4%. Municipal budgets too will be strained by the increase in OHIP premiums for their employees.

Perhaps hospital budgets and municipal budgets have become over-inflated in recent years, but there has been no previous attempt on the part of this government to work with hospitals or municipalities to restrain expenditures. If it comes to that, Mr. Speaker, people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, and the provincial government has been one of the chief offenders when it comes to extravagance and over-spending.

The Treasurer was quite proud of his budget, I understand. Surely this pride was a little misplaced. Certainly, he avoided the projected $2 billion deficit, but is a deficit of $1.25 billion something to brag about, when you consider that Ontario has for years been one of the wealthiest provinces in Confederation? Are we supposed to accept the fact that the near 50% increase in OHIP premiums was inevitable in view of inflation, Mr. Speaker? This is nonsense, and you and I both know it. The increases could have been avoided, or at least reduced, if bureaucratic inefficiency had been eliminated, and administrative extravagance cut back. The 50% increase in OHIP premiums was no more inevitable or beyond provincial government control than the close to half a billion dollars spent last year on the pre-election, vote-buying goodies - the 2% reduction in sales tax, first-time home owner grants, and automobile sales tax rebates.

If the Treasurer in his ivory tower believes that the government's fiscal policies won't cause hardship to the people of Ontario, perhaps he should have some of his Treasury experts check out the situation for a cross-section of families in the middle to low income brackets. Let them take into consideration, a family man, forced to pay $384 a year for OHIP premiums, possible increased Blue Cross payments, high property taxes because of the cut-backs in transfer payments, inflated hydro rates to cover expansionary development on the part of this government-sponsored Frankenstein. At the same time this man is unlikely to receive an increase in salary to compensate for his rising expenses, because this government has, without reservation, accepted the jurisdiction of the federal Anti-Inflation Board. This budget will cause no hardship, the Treasurer says. Such a statement is arrant nonsense - and he knows it.

Highway Statistics in Ontario

TORONTO - Through the initial three months of 1976, Ontario enjoyed its lowest motor vehicle accident fatality rate in a decade.

Minister of Transportation and Communications James Snow today confirmed that 160 people died in traffic accidents.

"This is the lowest figure since 1966", he stated.

Since the mandatory seat belt legislation became law on January 1st, the Minister has held his ground despite a flurry of protests mounted by small groups of motorists who firmly believed that the wearing of seat belts should be a personal choice.

"Ontario has also had over 1,000 fewer injuries a month since seat belts were introduced, and I have to call that a plus," said Mr. Snow.

"And while tragically there were those 160 deaths, that's 86 less than through January, February and March of '75. That's a decline of 33.6 per cent."

"In the injuries category, the decrease measures 18.7 per cent - despite a four per cent increase in accidents."

Statistically, 14,510 people were hurt in traffic accidents through the first three months of 1976 compared to 17,847 in 1975.

Snow readily conceded that every citizen has the right to dissent when any legislation is passed.

"But as the Minister responsible for highway safety, what was I supposed to do in view of the mounting carnage on our highways, concession roads & streets?"

"To just stand back and write the situation off would have been irresponsible." "Despite a multitude of traffic laws - those governing traffic lights, speed limits, stop signs, vehicle fitness, driver testing, enforcement, all to guarantee motorists and their passengers a maximum of safety, people were dying in increasing numbers," he pointed out.

From halfway across the world - New Zealand and Australia and Sweden - the evidence mounted. And it was all pro seat belts.

"I simply in all honesty couldn't ignore such facts," said Mr. Snow.

So, he introduced the legislation and all political parties endorsed the proposition that seat belts could reduce fatalities, the severity of injuries and even injuries themselves.

Since that time the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Quebec have introduced mandatory seat belt legislation.

"It's too early to make any rash promises for the entire year," he said. "We could have several of those kinds of collisions which wipe out entire families - or a mass multi-car-bus-tractor pile-up which would tilt any figures out of whack. "And the summer months are upon us when as traffic density mounts, the risk of accidents also rises."

"Seat belts by themselves aren't the be-all and end-all. That remains with the driver," he concluded. "The driver who forgets that he or she is behind the wheel of a potential death-dealing missile is almost certain to show up on my Ministry's grim set of statistics - seat belts or no seat belts."

Walk a block a day.
It's the first step.

O.S.L. offers advice for safe bumper jack use

Warmer weather, with its promise of vacations and weekend trips, means many a backyard mechanic will be outdoors, working under a car.

A number of do-it-yourself repairers use a bumper jack to support their vehicles while they do wheel or undercarriage work. This is a critical mistake.

A bumper jack is made for only one purpose - changing a tire. It's not suitable for prolonged wheel work or any work that puts a mechanic under the car.

A hefty tug on a vehicle component could easily pull a car off a jack, and children or pets playing near the work area could stumble into the car or trip the lock holding the jack in the up position, causing the vehicle to drop to the pavement. The light-duty lock mechanisms on jacks have also been known to fail.

Jack stands should be used for any under-car work or any repair for which the car has to be suspended above the pavement for longer than it would take to change a tire. Jack stands are convenient to use, inexpensive, and can be purchased at any automotive supply store. The bumper jack should be used only to lift the car high enough to place the jack stands.

The Ontario Safety League offers motorists the following advice for safe bumper jack use:

1. Check to see that the car is positioned where the jack platform will be on a smooth, level surface. Press down on the service brake and then set the emergency brake. This will lock all four brake shoes on the rear wheels. Then shift into "park" on automatic transmission vehicles or "reverse" on manual transmission.

2. Keep children and pets away from the work area.

3. Make sure the shaft of the jack is perpendicular to the ground. Position the bumper hook properly according to your car-owner's manual, and make sure the lock is in the full-up position before attempting to raise the car.

4. If you're changing a tire, loosen the lug nuts before jacking the wheel off the ground. This will make it easier to unfasten the nuts. Keep in mind that a sharp pull on a lug wrench while the car is on the jack could cause the vehicle to fall. When replacing the tire, semi-tighten the lugs while the wheel is raised. Finish the job when the wheel is on the ground.

5. Jack slowly to avoid shaking the car.

6. Check to be sure nothing is under the car before lowering it to the ground.

Doing your own automotive work can save you time and money, but it can also bring a lot of misery if you don't adopt a professional attitude toward repairs.

Ontario Medical Association urges isolation for diseases

The Ontario Medical Association will urge the Ministry of Health to immediately plan for isolation facilities to deal with highly communicable diseases such as smallpox and lassa fever. In presenting its report to the governing Council in Toronto on Monday, the O.M.A. Committee on Public Health expressed grave concern that no facilities exist in Ontario for the isolation of very communicable diseases.

Smallpox and lassa fever are considered so highly communicable, a treatment facility would have to be almost completely isolated.

Although smallpox has been almost eradicated through mass immunization programs, lassa fever, a viral infection, results in fever, malaise, early prostration and a death rate of up to 40 per cent. The Committee on Public Health noted that with the increased amount of travel to Africa, where lassa fever originates, it could easily be brought into this country where a susceptible population has no natural resistance.

The O.M.A. viewed with much concern the absence of isolation facilities and urged the federal and provincial governments to work out a contingency plan to cope with a potential emergency outbreak.

Increasing number of home fires caused by secondary heating units

Toronto - Householders who try to beat the high cost of heating their homes by installing wood and coal-burning systems, may be flirting with danger unless these systems are properly installed and maintained.

This warning comes from Insurance Bureau of Canada which represents most property casualty insurance companies doing business in Canada.

"An increasing number of serious home fires caused by secondary heating units is being reported by insurance companies," IBC Secretary David Jackson said. "Unfortunately, many people are not aware of the hazards involved."

The Bureau points out that the rising cost of fuel oil and natural gas has caused many homeowners to install simple boxstoves and Franklin-style solid fuel burning stoves. All too often these units are installed dangerously close to wooden walls, or are vented to chimneys that are not designed to withstand the additional heat of a wood or coal burning unit. And a major fire and explosion hazard is created if such units are connected to existing chimneys which are part of oil-burning furnace systems.

"The average consumer, buying one of these stoves will also buy a chimney that is suitable for a maximum temperature of 1000 degrees F - unaware that a wood burning unit needs a chimney rated for a maximum temperature of 1800 degrees F," Mr. Jackson points out. "And unless the chimneys of solid fuel burning units are cleaned out regularly, the accumulated soot poses an additional hazard raising chimney temperature even higher."

The Bureau is urging all homeowners who has installed such secondary heating systems, or are contemplating doing so, to have them carefully checked for these dangers. They should also report installation of auxiliary heating units to their insurance company or agent.

Ontario has highest per capita ownership of life insurance

Since 1960, life insurance ownership in Ontario has increased by 185 per cent while net incomes have advanced by 160 per cent. For the rest of Canada, life insurance ownership has more than doubled while national incomes have risen by 175 per cent.

However, on a per capita basis, residents of Ontario lead those of other provinces in the amount of life insurance owned. The average owned per resident in Ontario is $9,100, in Quebec $8,900, in British Columbia $7,400, in the Prairie provinces $7,200 and in the Atlantic provinces $5,300.

According to a survey by The Canadian Life Insurance Association, the most dramatic growth in per capita ownership of life insurance has taken place in Newfoundland, where it has more than quadrupled.

On the weekend of May 14th, the 1st Haliburton Boy Scouts went on a very successful trip to the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife. The boys and leaders were very impressed with the facilities at the Wildlife Centre. There are excellent camping sites, swimming areas, and many lakes to do some fishing.

the newer boys caught on to what was taking place.

Guy McCausland kept up his comical actions by telling jokes and putting on a great swimming show. I think all in all the boys enjoyed a valuable camping experience in which they were able to put their woodmanship skills to work.

A special thanks goes out to Grant Rae who helped provide transportation to the Wildlife area and to our Scout Committee who sponsored the boys registration fees for the weekend.

At this time I would like to extend a welcome to any boy between the ages of ten and thirteen, who would like to join the worthy organization. We always encourage new members because the program tends to provide challenging experiences. Our first meeting of the Scout year will probably be on the second Wednesday in September of 1976. Any boy wishing to come out to see what Scouts are all about, are welcome to attend a meeting in June before school is out for the year.

Hall's Lake news

A perfectly lovely weekend of sunshine pleased everyone who spent time at the Lakes, though the probs forecasted rain and clouds.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ali Williams who are celebrating their 49th Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Farnsworth are having a considerable number of improvements made to their attractive place before the Summer guests arrive at Lorelea Lodge.

The Stanhope Firemen are holding their annual Spring Dance on Saturday June 5th, at Medley's, Carnarvon with a limited number of tickets available from their volunteer firemen. We wish them success in raising funds for their addition to the Firehall.

Sunday the 5th of June is the Spring Fly-In at Stanhope Airport and you will see Posters about town telling of the events and good things to eat.

Many guests from some distances arrived to take in the Stinson-Woods wedding on Saturday and all agreed this is a lovely part of the world to live in.

Drove up to Big Hawk Landing on Sunday to view the scene of last weekend's tragic mishap, and it certainly is one mess which will have to be left as is until after the enquiry and investigation.

Local Lodges report they are receiving encouragement from Summer bookings so all who are in business are hoping for a good season, weather-wise and business-wise.

Nice to see Roger Hewitt back on his old job - collecting for the Toronto Star.

Hope there is a better turn-out at the Auxiliary meeting of Hyland Crest this Monday evening. New and interested members, both men and women, are welcome and needed.

A gentle rain today is making everything look green and lush and our lilacs are now in full bloom, where further South they are almost over.

Report from Queen's Park by John Eakins M.P.P., Victoria-Haliburton

The Attorney General has indicated support for a suggestion that drivers be allowed to appeal lengthy licence suspensions. Albert Roy, Liberal, M.P.P. (Ottawa East), had suggested that a judge might impose a 15-year licence suspension even though a driver could be fully rehabilitated after five or ten years. Under proposed legislation, Ontario judges would be able to impose up to life-time licence suspensions. He asked the Attorney General whether Ontario intends to set up an appeal mechanism now that licence suspensions are a provincial matter. The Attorney General said suspensions of more than three years would relate only to criminal offences where there is a possible penalty of life imprisonment. However, he said he agrees in principle that a mechanism should be established to deal with the new changes in Legislation.

Liberal Leader Stuart Smith told the Legislature this week that at least two employees at a small Hamilton firm have developed lung diseases which appear to be caused by asbestos fibres. He raised the matter while criticizing the Ministry of Health for inadequate inspection of industrial plants, asked the Minister to investigate the company in question, and submitted for analysis a sample of dust from the premises. The Minister indicated that his Ministry is experiencing some difficulty in recruiting occupational health inspectors. Apparently there is a world-wide shortage of qualified people in this field. He indicated that the Ministry's main responsibility is to set standards for occupational health, with the Ministries of the Environment, Natural Resources and Labour carrying out most of the inspections.

The Leader of the Opposition has charged the Minister of Community and Social Services with trying to pull a "veil of secrecy" over information the public is entitled to have. He made public and internal memorandum which the Minister sent to officials within the Ministry, ordering that any communication subject to his authority be deemed confidential until he approved it for publication. The memo, dated the 19th May, makes a distinction between "information" which should be readily available, and "intelligence" which should not. Information, according to the Minister, is "factual, quantitative data, such as numbers, names, dates, locations, etc. of services and facilities of the Ministry properly in the public domain." Intelligence is described as "reports, correspondence, conceptual ideas, proposals, programmes, projects, procedures, etc..." not to be made public knowledge unless and until considered such by the Minister.

Liberal M.P.P. Albert Roy told the Legislature that police suspect people involved in organized crime are among the main beneficiaries of profit from pornographic material. He asked the Attorney General to confirm suspicions that Capital Distributing Co. Canada Ltd. and its owners "are known or suspected by police to have some association with organized crime." Capital Distributing, a subsidiary of U.S.-owned Capital Distributors, headed by John Santangelo of Derby, Conn., U.S., has been charged with distributing obscene publications. The Attorney General indicated he had no specific information which would link the distribution of pornographic material to organized crime.

Ontario does not intend to resurrect proposals for a new federal airport in Pickering, North East of Metro Toronto. Questioned about a recent federal decision not to allow more foreign airlines to land at Toronto International Airport, because of Traffic congestion, the Premier said Ontario will not support expansion at Malton, which he described as capable of handling more traffic on existing runways, if flights were "spaced properly during the course of the day." He said he is not aware of discussions between the provincial and federal government on airport facilities - that talk of any move is "rumour at this stage."

Compensation Covers Farm Workers

(The following article continues a series on Workmen's Compensation in the province of Ontario.)

All persons working full or part-time for wages in the agricultural industry in Ontario are fully covered by the province's Workmen's Compensation program. The Workmen's Compensation Act requires the farm operator, whether he owns the land on which the farming operation is carried or leases it, to pay for such coverage through an annual assessment based on his payroll for part-time as well as full-time employees.

The farm operator himself, the employer in this instance, is not automatically covered, but he may arrange coverage for himself by personal application to the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board. It should be stressed here that members of the farm operator's family who assist in working the farm are also not automatically covered, even though the operator has personal coverage, unless they are actually paid wages, again either part or full-time, which are shown on the annual payroll for the operation.

In the case of children or wards of the farm operator, coverage is provided by paying them wages shown on the annual payroll. The farm operator's wife may be covered if personal coverage for her is requested. She is not protected in the same manner as a worker on the payroll.

Once Workmen's Compensation coverage is in force it applies to all types of work in the farm. Also included is work which a farm operator arranges that either he, his employees or members of his family to whom he pays wages undertake to provide assistance to a neighboring farmer.

The farm operator who has not arranged for personal coverage for work on his own farm would not, obviously, be covered while providing assistance to a neighbor, unless he were paid wages for the work and these were shown on the neighboring farmer's annual payroll.

Board and lodging provided for children or wards of the farm operator who are of school age cannot be included as wages, since the operator would have a duty to furnish such food and shelter whether they work on the farm or not.

The extent of Workmen's Compensation coverage on farm operations is identical with that for other industries and businesses throughout the province. The farm operator is the party responsible for reporting all accidents resulting in compensable injury. As in all other situations, reports on accidents should be filed promptly and in the required detail so that claims may be processed swiftly and the assistance to which the injured party is entitled provided without delay.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

The Chamber was very pleased this week to have the opportunity to arrange a Luncheon meeting with M.P. John Eakins and seven members of his Provincial Caucus. The purpose of this meeting was to bring together members of our County that could advise Mr. Eakins and his colleagues of the problems in our area, and how they may best work on our behalf. The meeting is scheduled for this Wednesday, June 2nd, and the Reeves, and representatives of Economic Development Commission, Social Planning Council, Library, School of Fine Arts, Snowmobile Association, and of course the Chamber have been invited to attend. We suggest you watch this paper next week for details of the meeting.

Your Secretary-Manager is going back to school. Our Chamber has fortunately been granted a scholarship to enable myself to attend a five day course at the University of Western Ontario on Association Management. It is too bad that this comes at such a busy time when there are so many important things to be done here at home, but the benefits to this Chamber and its members far out weigh this inconvenience.

We received a copy of the new Traveller's Encyclopedia this week and are pleased to announce Haliburton is back on the Map: We even have a road shown through the County, and the map identifies Minden, Haliburton and Dorset, with a brief description of each. The descriptions were abbreviated somewhat from the ones that we submitted, but we are certainly satisfied that it is a vast improvement from the original issue in which we were omitted. Now if we can just get them to mention us on the weather and snowmobile reports ---

Stanhope notes

by Alex Stevenson

The recent tragic occurrence at the Big Hawk Lake causeway has left many people shocked that such a thing could happen.

It seems reasonable to think that such structures, designed for the volume of traffic making use of this causeway and considering the weight of some vehicles at times using the causeway, should in future be governed by some sort of building code, even if it is on private land and paid for by private owners.

After all building codes are applied to the buildings you erect on your own property, so why not on construction of this type.

Perhaps some sort of enabling legislation should be sought by the Township to permit the setting up of standards to be met in such structures.

Those at the scene after the collapse, and on Monday following the occurrence were high in their praise of the Stanhope Volunteer Firemen and of the people who quickly rallied to maintain a supply of sandwiches and of hot coffee during the hours that the firemen strove to recover the bodies of the victims.

The firemen, working from a barge which they wedged down between the bank and the culvert and under overhanging logs and fill, placed themselves in a very dangerous position to carry on the recovery work.

These men demonstrated that if they were ever equipped with an up to date emergency vehicle it will be in good hands if the need arises to use it.

June 16th, may be the date that library patrons in Stanhope will begin using the new library room.

It is hoped that work on the building will be sufficiently advanced to permit the placing of some three thousand volumes on the shelves, including a generous number of reference books.

While the building will be put to use at this time, the building will be far from ready, particularly the furnishings which will be added as the committee achieves success in its fund raising efforts.

It is hoped that the public will provide the support needed to permit the committee to apply for a Wintario grant, and make possible the acquisition of draperies, furniture and equipment for the reading room and also the meeting room.

Equipment would include a projector and screen and also a sound system, and thus make possible a wide range of cultural, intellectual and recreational programs for all age groups of the permanent and the seasonal residents.

Groups interested in crafts or art classes could find the new facility useful, as would youth groups, and senior citizens would find encouragement for their activities.

Throughout the summer you will be hearing more about the library and its plans for a worthwhile participation in the life of the community.

Canadians no longer best insured in the world

Contrary to a long-held popular belief, Canadians are no longer the best insured people in the world. According to recent surveys, the United States and Japan have moved out in front.

On a per capita basis, ownership of life insurance by Canadians ranks second, after that of the people of the United States. Canadians own an average of $8,300, Americans $9,400.

Relative to national income, the Japanese have shown a dramatic increase of nearly 160 per cent in the seven year period 1967-1974, making them the most heavily life-insured people in the world.

WCB Publications and Films Answer Queries

(The following article continues a series on Workmen's Compensation in the province of Ontario.)

To ensure Ontario workers have ready access to simple, straight forward information on protection available in the event of a workplace injury, the Workmen's Compensation Board has prepared a number of booklets and pamphlets setting out the medical coverage and cash benefits to which they are entitled and explaining the basic steps to be taken in the event of an accident to make certain claims are processed promptly.

Available in several languages, appropriate literature dealing with various aspects of the province's Workmen's Compensation system is distributed by the WCB's Public Affairs Division. It may be secured either through the Board's head office in Toronto (2 Bloor St., East) or by contacting area branch offices throughout the province.

All Ontario workers are no doubt aware the province's Workmen's Compensation system covers them for medical costs and cash benefits in lieu of wages in the event they are injured as the result of a workplace accident. For the majority, that's all they really need to know.

A number, however — 395,000 out of a protected work force of 3,000,000 in 1975 — at some time find themselves directly involved with Ontario's Workmen's Compensation Board as work accident victims. In that situation they'll be well served and have their benefits available without delay if they follow instructions in the Board's most requested publication: "CLAIMS INFORMATION FOR EMPLOYEES AND EMPLOYERS". A conveniently vest-pocket-size format, it sets out the basic steps to be taken by both employees and employers to make certain the WCB receives all the information required to handle claims immediately on receipt.

Also in wide demand is a fold-out pamphlet titled: "WHAT DOES WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION MEAN TO YOU". It is available in five editions combining English with French, Spanish, Greek, Italian and Portuguese respectively.

For those interested in current Workmen's Compensation developments there's the monthly "WCB REPORT", a tabloid size newspaper format mailed out on request.

In addition to these booklets and pamphlets, other useful material includes "HOW IT WORKS AND WHO IT WORKS FOR", The Board's objectives, and a pamphlet summarizing the Act. The Board's Public Affairs Division has available two excellent films on Workmen's Compensation in Ontario. "MAN THE BUILDER", a 25-minute documentary, deals generally with the problem of industrial accidents and how to cope with them; "MAN AND WORK" is a six-minute featurette which concentrates on rehabilitation of injured workers. Both films are 16mm in full colour with sound. They may be secured, on loan, through the Public Affairs Division.

Cardiff Health Centre News

It is with regret that we inform the public of the fact that Dr. P. McEnery and Dr. H.S. Christiansen are no longer providing physician services at the Cardiff and Area Health Care Centre. Dr. Christiansen withdrew his services April 12th, 1976 and Dr. McEnery, Tuesday, May 18th, 1976.

We wish to thank both doctors for their services. They worked hard while at the Centre, and their advice and guidance to the Board of Directors was very much appreciated. Without Dr. McEnery's initial involvement there would be NO Health Centre in Cardiff today.

During the initial discussions on the formation of a Health Centre in Cardiff, the eventual withdrawal of both doctors was discussed. The hope expressed that should our expectations be fully realized, physician services on a half or full time basis would be most suitable for Cardiff and Area. We have now reached the stage where the demands on physician services require more time than Drs. McEnery and Christiansen can give without sacrifice to their own practices.

We welcome Dr. M.A. Slattery to the Cardiff and Area Health Care Centre. Dr. Slattery lives in Apsley and has scheduled the following hours for physician services:

Monday - 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.
Wednesday 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.
Friday 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Death from Suffocation

The recent tragic death of a Toronto five-year old in an unused refrigerator prompts the Ontario Safety League to issue a warning to all parents about one of the most atrocious and terrifying experiences a child may encounter - the possibility of suffocation.

In Canada, there is an average of 3 to 6 deaths of this type yearly, in spite of the fact that for the last 18 years Canadian built refrigerators and freezers have been equipped with a safety release, either of the magnetic or mechanical-catch type. Each is pressure sensitive. However, most of the refrigerators and freezers being discarded are older models and may not have this quick release mechanism. Also bear in mind that a child suddenly trapped in the dark enclosure may panic and not have the presence of mind to activate the release mechanism. In fact, the child may not even know that an escape route exists, let alone how to use it.

A child's imagination can turn the abandoned unit into a hideout, rocket ship or play house. With the door shut, the dream vanished and death can occur within minutes.

The Ontario Safety League reminds Ontario residents that it is illegal in many municipalities for anyone to leave an unused large appliance without first securing the door or removing it. Even if you are planning to later take the appliance to the cottage or are simply storing it for possible future use, the door should be removed. In most cases, this can be done simply with a screwdriver. If you have difficulty, call in a serviceman. Any serviceman who belongs to the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society, a non-profit, educational association, will gladly do the job for you free.

Most importantly, educate your child to the hazard of playing around unused appliances and encourage the reporting of any abandoned unit.

Saturday 9:30 am - 1:30 pm
On June 1st, Nurse Practitioner D. Belshaw, R.N. BSc. n., will commence full time employment with the Cardiff and Area Health Care Centre. Dilys Belshaw is known to many of you who have met her socially and professionally. Dilys has been very encouraged by the manner in which she has been accepted.

To officially welcome Dr. M.A. Slattery, M.D. and Nurse-Practitioner D. Belshaw an OPEN HOUSE at the Cardiff Health Centre, 10 Hemlock Rd., Cardiff, will be held on June 12th, 1976 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. This will give the public an opportunity to visit the Centre and provide an opportunity for folks to meet Dr. Slattery, Nurse-Practitioner Belshaw and receptionist Mrs. Pam Davies in an informal atmosphere, and chat over a cup of tea or coffee and nibble a cookie.

You can inquire too, about the diet clinic which is in operation every Wednesday, 1:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. and proving very successful.

FIRST AID PROJECT

Mrs. Eunice George, St. John's Ambulance First Aid Instructor and others trained in First Aid work will answer questions about their work and arrange a demonstration of methods of resuscitation including mouth to mouth resuscitation on "Annie" a model used for this purpose, (if the model is available).

In an area like ours, where there are so many lakes and so much woodland, and where many visitors spend their vacations in the summertime, knowledge of First Aid can be particularly important.

Folks living in the Paudash area of Faraday Township, the Improvement District of Bicroft, Cardiff Township, Harcourt area and Wilberforce are specifically invited to come and visit, and please bring your friends. REMEMBER - Open House - June 12th, 1976 - 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Carnarvon news notes

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the families of the Grandmother, and Grandchildren who were on the causeway when it collapsed on the holiday and were killed. It was a most unfortunate accident and left a number of people stranded at Hawk Lake. It was a most terrible occurrence, as they were only walking across the causeway, the sympathy of all the folks who live here is deeply felt by all.

The causeway went from Big Hawk River and enabled the folks to get closer to their cottages.

Last week the ladies and some men from Ingoldsby and Burnt River took a bus trip to Ottawa, and they all had a wonderful time. They had a good tour of Ottawa viewing some of the beautiful homes down there, they saw the Prime Minister's house. They also toured the Parliament Buildings, and had afternoon tea with Bill Scott our member from here. They came home tired, but happy. 48 folks went on the bus.

The folks from here had a bee on Saturday, to clean up the Twelve Mile Lake cemetery, after the debris gathered during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilmore and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Gilmore and family were up for the holiday staying with Mrs. Ed. Minaker.

Jim Fairfield is still a patient in the Civic Hospital in Peterborough, Jim has been ill for some time now and we hope the doctors are able to help him. Jim is the husband of Jean Fairfield, and son of Mrs. Clayton Rogers.

Mrs. McLearn had a nasty accident when she fell down the steps and hurt her back, we hope she is getting along nicely now.

Miss Carol Rogers, and Mr. Jim Fraser were here this week end from Sarnia, they stayed with Mrs. Muriel Hewitt.

Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Windsor were in Belleville last week to attend the funeral of their brother-in-law Mr.

Arthur Holgate of Cannifton. Mr. Holgate was the husband of Maurice's sister Myrtle.

Zion/United Church was full to capacity last Sunday morning with visitors and summer residents. It is always a pleasure to see the summer folks come back and also for them to attend our services. Coffee was served after church and they had a time of fellowship together and got re-acquainted.

Weatherwise it was not a nice week end, as it was quite cool, there was not too much activity on the lakes.

Anyone For Tennis?

EVERYONE seems to be playing tennis lately. Finding an empty court on a sunny summer day can be as exhausting as playing the game.

Even if you don't know a back-hand from a volley, you can still look like a star on the courts. Our new interest in outdoor sports has spawned a whole new fashion industry.

Lilly Dee's action-wear, as well as selected fashions by all major Canadian designers, were seen recently when Canadian Designer Showcase toured Canada. The show sponsored by Borateem-Plus sold out in all 19 cities with the proceeds going to local charities. The show's extensive travel itinerary was arranged by Air Canada.

Action sportswear by such designers as Lilly Dee, offer a wide range of styles and colors for athletes of both sexes. Centre court Wimbledon would never have approved the striking color combinations in some of today's tennis outfits. But white remains the perennial favorite and many clubs maintain traditional "whites only" rules. Keeping sportswear white can be tricky. There are so many fabrics and blends on the market, and each needing special handling. Always check the garment label for care instructions and fabric content and for white garments there are some simple rules.

Cottons should be washed in the hottest available water using a good detergent. If perspiration stains or odors are noticeable, presoak first in a cool solution of Borateem-Plus. You may need to rub the stained areas gently to remove perspiration "tidemarks". Some tough stains may be from deodorants, which can permanently mark the fabric. In many cases, these are almost impossible to remove.

Cotton and polyester blends are also popular for sportswear. Use warm water to wash blends, most of which are permanent press and can be machine washed and dried. Avoid using chlorine bleach as it can yellow polyester resins used for permanent press finishes. Instead, choose one of the new bleach substitutes such as Borateem-Plus, which is added with the detergent.

It is important that the washer not be overloaded. It simply cannot do as good a job of getting clothes clean unless they have room to move freely in the basket. An overloaded washer or too little detergent are the most common causes of dingy laundry.

Synthetics and synthetic blends are all best washed in warm water to which the recommended amount of bleach substitute has been added. A paste of this product rubbed in and allowed to stand for 10 minutes would remove body oil. Grease marks should be treated with an oily pre-soak product.

A last warning: don't wash synthetics, especially nylon, with colored laundry. The color transfers easily, and you want your whites to above all, stay white.

For a free leaflet on laundry, or if you have a washday problem, write to: The Washday Advice Bureau, 151 Bloor Street West, Ste. 1100, Toronto, Ontario M5S 1S8.

Finds soft shoulders hazardous

Jeffrey W. Carpenter, 17, of Lochlin, learned the hard way that soft shoulders can be pretty hazardous to cope with while driving.

The youthful driver was westbound on the Ingoldsby Lochlin Road on Sunday afternoon, May 30, when he observed an eastbound vehicle, turned to his right and the car he was driving edged off the main travelled portion of the road, was caught up in a soft shoulder, climbed an embankment and rolled.

Minden OPP Constable Brian Ladurantaye investigated and estimated damage to the vehicle at about $2,000. The driver escaped with minor injuries.

THE SUDDEN DEPARTURE

"And when He had spoken these things, while they beheld, He was taken up and a cloud received Him out of their sight" Acts 1:9

The abrupt departure of the "Risen Lord Jesus" is a very touching scene indeed. For many years the Christian Church gave recognition to "Ascension Day" as they very touchstone of the Christian Faith. Today it is an almost forgotten event, and is no longer a special day to be remembered. But why not? Were there no ascension, then no return of the Lord could take place. Perhaps this is why so little attention is given to the return of "this same Jesus" Acts 1:11. Unbelief has ruled it out and to many professing Christians that return is an unwanted day.

But not so the true "Church" who is seeing signs of the times pointing to an early fulfillment of all the Scriptural promises related to that longed for appearing. Indeed, there is nothing to hinder that return right now, except the long suffering of Jehovah God who is not willing that any soul should perish. 2 Peter 3:9.

The "Ascension" of the Lord Jesus was a great link in the chain of events which have to do with our redemption. He had come out from God that He might die for the sins of the world and make possible our salvation. Matthew 20:28, John 3:14-18. Having died that "death" and "risen again" from the dead, He sojourned another forty days upon the earth before the "Ascension" parted Him from the believers. Luke 24:51, Acts 1:9.

During those forty days when only the believing ones saw Jesus, and fellowshiped with Him, they were taught many things. These were days of direct tutelage of the Lord. While the meetings were somewhat scattered, He was in direct contact with His own, appearing among them some eleven or twelve times, yet He was always close at hand. He was seen of them, they heard Him speak, He ate with them and He taught them as He had been accustomed to do. The subject matter was largely the "Kingdom of God". No doubt the emphasis was on the Spiritual Kingdom, but certainly there was also reference to the future literal Kingdom which the Lord God has covenanted to David long ago. 11 Samuel 7:8-13. It must have been this that prompted the disciples to ask whether or not they were to look for the restoration of this Kingdom at the time of the coming of the Holy Spirit. The Lord did not rebuke them for asking. He only reaffirmed the fact that the time for that Kingdom was related to His Second Coming. Matthew 25:31-46. Acts 1:6-7.

The disciples received commands from the Risen Lord during the forty days preceding His Ascension. Some were for their immediately use and others for a later date. The first was, "that they should not depart from Jerusalem but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith He, ye have heard of me". Acts 1:4, Luke 24:49.

During these days of waiting, new truths were revealed to them. They had to think them over, digest them, and fit them into the things they already knew. This calls for the exercise of faith! It is ever thus, as it brings a spiritual healthy and wholesome experience to those involved in searching out new truths. Christian growth is experienced and new demands put upon our faith as we learn to accept what is written in Scripture as coming from the mind of Jehovah God. The Lord honours us by testing our faith, and we honour Him by exercising it. We can learn much from the disciples during this period of their lives. They were obedient to the commands of their Lord. They did what they were told. They waited His time and then received His blessing. They set a pattern that profits us all to follow.

The attending angels at the departure of the Lord Jesus from earth's scene, was a great comfort to the perplexed disciples. Can we imagine the scene? Having led the little group of believers out as far as Bethany, He lifted up His hands and blessed them. Luke 24:50 While He was doing so, suddenly His feet left the ground and His Ascension took place. Luke 24:51, Acts 1:9. How considerate the Father was to send those two angels to give such comforting words at this time.

Their words of promise for a return to earth of "this same Jesus" is not so well received in this our day of apostasy, but nevertheless true. Acts 1:10-11. The prophet Zechariah had already made known this truth hundreds of years before and at the "Ascension of the Lord Jesus" was confirmed by the heavenly messengers at His departure. Zech. 14:4.

What a blessed event to be waiting for in this our day! At the close of the present "Church" age, all this what the Lord God has spoken will take place. This truth, that the "Ascension" necessitated a return of "this same Jesus," Acts 1:11, has been much obscured during many periods of Church history, but as "that day" is fast approaching most all "born-again believers are expectantly waiting for that return.

The last promise and the last prayer of the blessed "Book" is hinged upon the fulfillment of the coming again of our Saviour and Lord "Even so, come Lord Jesus" Rev. 22:20.

Portraits, Peterborough Area Women Past and Present

Portraits, Peterborough Area Women Past and Present was recently published by PORTRAITS' GROUP in Peterborough with the assistance of International Women's Year 1975, the Province of Ontario through the Ontario Arts Council, the Ministry of Labour, and the Department of the Secretary of State.

Portraits was written by 31 women and includes sections on Native Women, Pioneer Women, Women's Accomplishments, and Women Effecting Change. Included in the many Portraits are Catherine Parr Traill, Susanna Moodie, Margaret Laurence and Gill Sandeman (Peterborough Riding's member of the Ontario Legislature).

Portraits editor Gail Corbett, a former Canadian history teacher, feels "it's the local situation that's most important in our Canadian heritage." While exploring local history, she discovered that half the population had been neglected in history books which "dedicate one or to lines to women". She feels books like Portraits can contribute to a richer and fuller Canadian heritage.

In her foreword to the book, Flora MacDonald writes:

"If in a book which confines itself to a small section of Ontario such a number of examples of outstanding women can be found, I wonder how many more unsung heroines lived and are living across our country. I hope that others across Canada will follow the lead of the Peterborough area women and discover those who have made contributions in their own community."

OMA pushed seatbelts

The Ontario Medical Association, one of the groups instrumental in pressuring the Ontario government to introduce mandatory seatbelt legislation, has approved a recommendation that there should be few exemptions for people covered under the Act.

The Association's governing Council, meeting in Toronto, concluded there is no broad classification of disease or condition, including pregnancy, that should exclude persons from wearing seatbelts. Council advised physicians to be certain a decision to exempt a patient from wearing a seatbelt is valid on medical grounds. The reason should be clearly stated in the medical record in the event a doctor is called to account for his decision at a later date.

The O.M.A. Committee on Accidental Injuries commended the Minister of Transportation and Communications for his courage in introducing mandatory seatbelt legislation and recommended that the Act be amended to include individuals travelling in public transportation vehicles.

Since preliminary statistics point to a lowering of the death and injury rate, Council recommended that infants and children under five, now excluded, be included in the legislation as soon as it is practical for the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to publicize the use and availability of approved infant and child restraint systems.

Rent Review Act amended, protect tenants

Ontario tenants will not be hit with two successive rent increases within a short period of time says Sidney Handleman, minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations.

Recent amendments to the Rent Review Act prohibit landlords who benefitted from a recent increase of up to eight percent without a rent review order from levying a further increase for at least 12 months.

Mr. Handleman said some landlords were increasing rents by eight per cent on a short term basis and then writing leases, to be effective Aug. 1, which contain provisions for a second eight per cent increase. The amendments prohibit this practice.

The minister added that a tenant could apply for a review of any increase and that the decision of the rent review officer was binding for at least 12 months.

Under the Act, landlords must seek rent review for any increase in excess of eight per cent above the rent charged for the last full month for which the premises were rented prior to the first day of August.

The amendments spell out that tenancies of weekly or monthly duration are now included within the scope of the Act.

When an order has been issued, tenants may deduct the full overpayment from future rent cheques. Previously, these deductions were limited to one month only.

Certain types of rental accommodation have been exempted from the Act by the amendments. These include:

- public hospitals and religious institutions;
- non profit educational facilities providing accommodation for students or staff (when institution officials submit a statement certifying that they have consulted with a recognized council of students or a staff association. The statement must be filed with a rent review officer before the notice of rent increase is given.)
- rental projects owned or operated by, or on behalf of, a federal, provincial or municipal government agency.

The amendments invalidate any rent review orders previously made on premises which are now exempt.

"We feel the amendments will streamline the entire application of the rent review process," Mr. Handleman said. "It makes no sense to apply controls to units which are already subsidized - units which even now are rented at rates well below market value."

In Memoriam

MAUGHAN - In loving memory of a dear father, William, who passed away May 29th, 1972.

They who think that you are gone
Because no more face they see are wrong
For in our hearts you live,
And always will in memory.

Lovingly remembered by daughter Margaret and son-in-law Walker.

SAWYER - In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Ida Rosetta Sawyer, who passed away May 29th, 1973.

There is a family who misses you
And finds time long since you went,
We think of you daily and hourly
But try to be brave and content,
Tears that we shed are in silence,
And we breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were ours, and we remember
Though all the world forgets.

Deeply missed and have loving memories from son Fred, daughter-in-law Gloria grandson Jimmy and granddaughter Debbie Sawyer.

During this period there were two persons charged with impaired driving, two persons charged under the Narcotic Control Act, two compassionate messages delivered and four break ins investigated.

On Saturday, May 29, at 2:00 a.m. on County Road 6, a vehicle travelling eastbound, driven by 21 year old Richard N. Hann of 45 Southlawn Drive in Agincourt, left the eastbound lane when the driver lost control on loose gravel, while rounding a curve to the right. The vehicle travelled into the north ditch and rolled over,
